

Tinley Citizens Committee Unfavorable Toward The Present Sewerage Plans

The citizens committee of Tinley Park, a committee appointed by the President of the Village Board to give a report as to the attitude toward the plans for a new sewerage disposal plant in Tinley Park, reported thru their chairman they were not in favor of the present plan submitted which calls for an approximate total cost of $85,000.

The situation was gone in quite extensively according to the report submitted and tho they were unfavorable toward the present plan they suggested other plans of procedure such as the formation of a sanitary district in this locality or entering the Sanitary District of Chicago if such can be made possible.

The committee decided a sewerage system and plant large enough to handle sewerage ten to fifteen years from now would make extremely high assessments for the present population, while if one were built to accommodate the present citizenry it would be obsolete in a few years. The committee chairman, Paul H. Rauhoff, suggested that in the meantime while working out a plan, that the village board pass an ordinance making it imperative to all property owners to have cesspools cleaned semi-annually.

Mr. Rauhoff believes that the citizens should receive full value for money spent for public improvement work.

The village board has passed an ordinance that all septic tanks in the village must be cleaned every 6 months and a record kept of same.

The Bremen Township Republican Club at a lively meeting held Friday elected new officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President, Judge A. F. Heintz Vice-President, Otto Ziebell, Jr. Sec. Treas. Otto Ziebell, Sr. Sergeant at arms Mr. Watson.

TINLEY PARK GARDEN CLUB

By Trudie Noehring Swisher
EARLY DAWN

There is never a time so lovely,
As the bright early morning hours,
When the earth is bathed in sweetness
And the fresh dew is on the flowers.

There's never a time so joyous
As when the feathered folks awake,
And chatter so gay in the tree tops
High above the wild fern brake.

There is never a time so cheerful
As the rosy tinted dawn
When night's shadows are fading out
Across my daisy sprinkled lawn.

The Tinley Park Garden Club spent a very delightful afternoon, Monday, May 5th at the home of Mrs. Towles.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held at the Anderson home, Friday, May 16. The time is 2 o'clock.

ARRANGE FLOWERS ARTISTICALLY

Flower arrangements have become one of the household arts closely allied to gardening. After flowers are grown, the next step is to learn how to make the most of them in the house by the most effective arrangements. A comparison of unstudied and careless with good arrangements shows at a glance the beauty that is lost by poor arrangement in a bouquet. It is a real art and one requiring study even if the gardener possesses a natural aptitude for artistic arrangement.

This article will be continued next week.

MOKENA GARDEN CLUB NOTES

By MRS. OTTO A. BARTELS
Publicity Chairman.

The Mokena Garden Club held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the school auditorium. Mrs. Braun who is president of the club, opened the meeting by introducing Mrs. Walter Underwood of Wheaton, Ill. She spoke of the work of the Chicago Plant and Flower Guild. She spoke first to the school girls pointing out what they could do to help the poor, needy and the shut-ins in Chicago, which was very interesting to the children after which the school girls were excused.

She then spoke to the ladies present of the work the Guild is doing. This is one organization that is not asking for money. They want the surplus of our gardens such as flowers and vegetables, what ever we have to spare and send it to Chicago. The Mokena Garden Club is going to send each Friday morning and there will be some one from the Guild at the LaSalle Station to take the things and the visiting nurses will take them to the different places where they are the most needed.

So let us all help to make some one happy by sending some flowers or vegetables to some poor shut-in. It will also make you happier when you find you have made some one else happy. So anyone who has a surplus of flowers and vegetables and wishes to send them, please notify Mrs. August Pfeiffer who is the chairman of the Guild in Mokena.

Mrs. Underwood's talk was very touching and interesting. After the address, the regular business of the Club was transacted. Mrs. John Balaz was elected as chairman of the civic work. Mrs. Braun read a poem "May's Wild Flowers". Mrs. Braun had gathered about fifteen different species of wild flowers and had each plant put in a glass container so each could see the different bulbs and roots, how they grow which also proved to be very interesting. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Tooley invited Mrs. Underwood and the members of the club to her beautiful garden. It was a flower show by its self to see the hundreds of tulips in bloom.

Asks $20,000 In Alienation Suit

A jury has been selected in the Will County circuit court to listen to evidence in a suit for $20,000 filed by George Lauffer, of Grant Park, against Stephen Steele of Mokena, charged with alienating the affections of Mrs. Florence Lauffer.

The former Mrs. Lauffer is now Mrs. Steele. She obtained a divorce from her husband in May 1927, and married Steele about six months later. Steele was a hired man for Lauffer, when the latter resided on a farm near Mokena.

Lauffer did not contest his wife's suit for divorce and gave her a house in Mokena, valued at $4,000. He claims he has been paying $75 month for the support of their five children.

Lauffer is engaged in operating a grain elevator at Grant Park at present. He is said to be wealthy. Judge Frank L. Hooper is presiding at the hearing. It is expected that Attorney A. H. Krusemark for Lauffer and Attorney Frank G. Brummond who represents Steele, will complete the selection of the jury speedily.

A bill for the reduction of alimony which Mr. Lauffer pays his former wife, has been filed.

El Comancho To Speak At Orland M. E.

The next Community and Church Night program of the Orland Park M. E. church will be Wednesday evening May 14. This program presents a rare treat in the feature of El Comancho the Old Timer of radio fame. He will appear in person thru the courtesy of Mr. Ralph Jennings and the Burlington Railroad.

El Comancho went into the west in the late sixties with his parents. He lived through the experiences of the settling of the west. Having first hand experience in the Indian wars, the days of the gold rush and the covered wagon. He knows the west as few men of our time know it and has the rare talent of being able to tell about it. Many heard him over the radio last winter and were very interested in his tales. That will not equal seeing him in person and hearing his tales first hand.

There will also be motion pictures of the western country which will help demonstrate or give a back ground for some of the tales. A very fine program of music is also arranged which will help to give a fine balance to the evening.

There will be a pot luck supper as usual. Everyone is invited to attend. A very fine hour of fellowship and good food before the program. This has been a real feature of our Church Night in the past and is always enjoyed.

Everyone is invited to attend but all children must be accompanied by their parents.

BOX PLEATS FOR THE SKIRT; MODERNISTIC SCARF AND BLOUSE

STUDY well the skirt pictured, which with its jacket of self fabric and a frilly blouse completes a most voguish costume. You will discover that it is somewhat unusual. Box-pleated! That's it—later than side pleats so fashionists declare.

Which means that to be up-to-the-minute in modishness you will be losing no time in acquiring one of the new-type pleated skirts. Take note, if you please, that the box pleats graduate from narrow at the top to wider at the hemline. Pleaters tell us that the way to prepare for these widening pleats is to cut the material somewhat circular, not, however, a complete circle as for the sunburst types. You'll love a skirt like this in the illustration, which, as you see, has a fitted yoke buttoning at the side, to which the daring pleated portion is seamed.

Of course every style-minded woman will be wanting a frilly blouse to wear with this skirt. Make it of crepe, satin or shantung, sheer wool challis, pastel-colored handkerchief or dainty batiste as you will, and, providing it has a finely pleated jabot frill, it will answer to fashion's latest call.

Speaking of pleated skirts, the dernier cri from Paris for the evening gown is the sunburst pleated skirt made of filmy chiffon. Attached to a bodice top, its enormously full hemline floats and flutters about the ankles, almost touching the floor so long is the skirt.

Now that so many unusual and fanciful forms of pleating are being exploited by the mode, it is well worth this very moment fancy is turning with enthusiasm to the scarf and the blouse, knowing what an important part they play in ensembling the tailor and in the field of the sports costume.

Facts which are outstanding in regard to the blouse which is smartest and the scarf which is ultra chic are that the former, because of the vogue for high waistedness, is most apt to be a tuck-in, while big squares of silk, bizarre both in color and design, lead in the sports scarf movement.

Colors for the blouse and the scarf run in two trends—very bright hues versus the new "pretty" pastels. As to the modish "baby colors," light blue, delicate pink and others of the esthetic pastels, they express themselves for the most part in monotonous, but when it comes to the vivid yellows, reds, greens and blues, they are apt to go modernistic in design, after the manner noted in the blouse and the scarf pictured.

If the color combination carried out in the blouse pictured be followed, you will choose beige for the main part, with maroon (chestnut brown) for the piping and the bordering on the silk square which ties so nonchalantly about the throat. Beige, navy and red would make a striking combination, using the bright navy for the insets, with red pipings, bordering the neckerchief, the skirt in matching navy. A costume like this is successfully carried out either in lightweight wove jersey or silk crepe.

Red, navy and gray on a cream-white background are worked in a highly modernistic patterning for the huge square scarf, which is almost sizable enough to be called a shawl. At any rate, silken squares done in hectic colorings are a very swanky sort for sports wear.

In assembling a wardrobe of scarfs, for "a scarf for every occasion" has become almost a slogan in the neckwear realm, be sure to add a pleated type, for things pleated, be they skirt, cape or in a trimming way, enter the mode at every opportunity.

DIET AND FOOD

After all the advice from various diet experts as to reduction of fat, if we simmer it down to the reasonable and normal conclusion, we find that if one is overweight, we need less food and more of exercise.

Less food does not mean that we should change our mode of living, or give up the foods we like, but cut down on the amount. Leave the table with the feeling that you could eat more, and would really enjoy more; but refrain. Such is good discipline for both the body and the mind. The Chinese, healthy, long-lived and normal in weight, eat one food mostly. The single diet, that is their secret. In Russia cabbage is the main dish. One of the evils of our modern civilized life is the complexity and mixtures that we make of food.

Look at the large families of healthy children if there are any large families in your neighborhood; note their diet. One family of nine, with seven healthy, rugged, bright-minded children would have for a noon meal such a one as this: When green peas were plentiful, they made a meal of cooked peas with bread and butter. When strawberries were in season strawberry shortcake would be the whole meal for the nine. All had all they wanted and everybody was satisfied and needed nothing more.

Every one of those children is well and doing his or her part in the world's work. They were poor, but never made any apologies if a friend dropped in at meal time; he was as welcome as if they were serving a feast, which it was, to every guest.

The ordinary meal in the average home is begun with a cocktail, or soup, usually both; then a main dish of meat, fish or fowl with vegetables, often with sauces that fight with every other food. Salad with rich dressings, and desserts also rich and frozen, followed by strong coffee to retard digestion, so that the stomach may get its second breath and try to get some order out of the chaos that it is expected to take care of.

Is it any wonder that our stomachs rebel at the way we force them to take such mixtures of unrelated foods?

How simple we could make our meals if we followed the single diet; what a saving on the housewife and wear and tear on our stomachs. But of course we hear some one say, I cannot eat strawberries and it doesn't run in our family to like cabbage? Well, pick out the food you do like; there should be many, and give a day to the enjoyment of each, or even a meal of one food now and then.

OUTDOOR AND GYPSY DISHES

During the warm weather there is nothing more pleasant than to take one's family and friends out to a stream or lake, or in the beautiful woods, rest and listen to nature and feed the inner man with just such things as may be cooked out doors. Here are some really good gypsy dishes that every one will enjoy:

A heavy iron kettle with an iron cover is best, place it in the coals and when hot add some chopped suet; when tried out add chopped lamb's heart and liver, simmer for three minutes, add a sprig of fennel and six peeled potatoes. Cover and cook one hour. The fennel is important to give the stew that tantalizing flavor.

Steak.—Take willow sticks, green and strong, sharpen and string the steaks on them. Turn the steaks while cooking, then season with salt and pepper and plenty of butter on hot dishes.

Gather the flowers of wild mustard, dry them and rub between the hands. It is much more delicate than the ordinary kind. Serve this with all meats.

Baked Potatoes.—Wrap potatoes in yellow dock leaves and skewer with thorns. Roast in the hot ashes covered with coals.

Roasted eggs. Pierce each shell at the ends and wrap in wet leaves. For soft cooked eggs leave in the hot coals for six minutes—if wished hard leave twenty.

Sausages of various kinds are always enjoyed cooked out of doors. String them on willow sticks and hold over the heat. Toasting marshmallows for desert will make a menu, with some satisfying sandwiches, fit for any appetite. The coffee of course is an important item. Mix it with egg and a little cold water, add boiling water, boil up and stir down lightly three times, then add a little cold water to settle and it is ready to serve.

Dangers Forgotten in Keen Desire for "Drag"

This may not be your idea of a big moment, but it sure was one big moment for me.

I was a first-class private in the Seventh Machine Gun battalion, Third Division.

On June 15, 1918, we were ordered to take positions on Hill 204. At this point the lines were very close together; in fact we could hear the boches talking.

We were given strict orders not to smoke, for fear the enemy would locate our positions. Anyone disregarding these orders was very liable to be court martialed.

I was a runner at the time and was about all in for want of a smoke. Determined to get a few drags regardless of orders, I went into the shelter half, crawled under a blanket, and had just nicely got started to smoke when in strode Lieutenant Hose. "Who in h—l is smoking?" he bellowed. I knew I would be discovered anyway, and fearing the worst, I answered nervously, "Private Allan, sir."

He responded in a much lower voice, "For G—d's sake give me a 'drag'—I'm dying for a smoke!"—Stanley H. Allan in American Legion Monthly.

Idea of Ungartered Hose Attracted Small Boy

The uncle, a young man, is addicted to the fad of wearing no hose supporters. Thus it was without any thought on his part that he carelessly sat in his usual manner, with crossed legs, which showed his hose to be hanging loosely about the ankles.

After he had left, his sister suddenly noticed her son's stockings were wrinkled in a manner that she deemed unattractive. However, thinking it was caused by his play, she straightened them without comment.

A half hour later the same condition was noted. This time the mother exclaimed impatiently, "Why, Robert, what are you doing that musses up your stockings in that way? Mother can't stop her work every few minutes to fix you up."

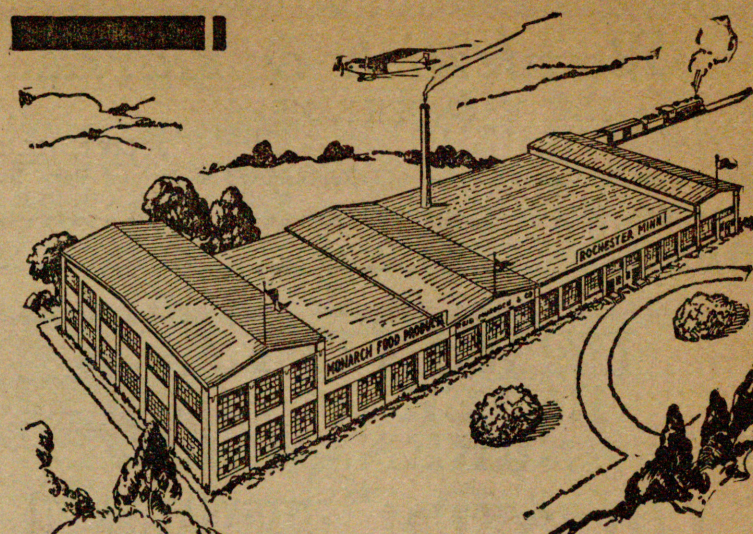

Her repair of the state of the stockings this time met with strenuous objection and finally the boy revealed that he "wanted to wear his stockings like Uncle Charles did."—Springfield Union.

Liberal

When the French ministry fell right in the middle of the naval conference in London, Premier Tardieu shrugged his shoulders and smiled. "I think I shall be back," he told Secretary Stimson.

"And will you find it in your heart to forgive your enemies?" asked Mr. Stimson curiously.

"I even forgive my friends," said M. Tardieu with a sad smile.

Shocked the Waitress

The American colony at Istanbul, Turkey, is chuckling over the linguistic mishap of an elderly American woman missionary, who after long years in Turkey, visited the United States. Lunching in a sedate New York tearoom, the missionary called a waitress and tipping her glass of lemonade, said: "Please bring me some booze." The waitress stared, but the dignified old lady repeated her order unflinched. Unwittingly she was using the Turkish word for "ice."

"Did you propose to the lady editor?" "No; I saw her reaching for a rejection slip."

"That's How I Knew It Was 'Kitchen-tested' Flour"

"My husband brought home a 'sack of flour' and put it in the bin. I did not see him do it and I did not ask him what kind it was. But when I made biscuits with this flour—which I consider the supreme test—they came out light and fluffy every time. Then I found the blue slip and I knew I was using Gold Medal Flour. It had met the test and come through with flying colors. No other flour can satisfy me now. I could tell Gold Medal 'Kitchen-tested' flour in the dark."

Thousands of Women Have Banished "Guess Work" From Their Baking. They now know they can get perfect results every time—that time is saved and worry eliminated.

THEY use a new-type flour for all baking purposes—GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour—that simplifies baking remarkably and banishes the cause of most baking failures.

Failures, experts found, were mostly due to the fact that two sacks of the same flour often acted differently, even with the same recipe . . . it was not uniform in oven action.

So now all GOLD MEDAL Flour is "Kitchen-tested" before it comes to you. As each batch comes through the mill it is tested by actual baking—bread, cakes, biscuits, pastries—in an oven just like yours. Only flour which acts the same perfect way every time is allowed to go out to you. Thus you know in advance exactly what your results will be.

Better Prices For Eggs

Better eggs and better prices for producers are the objectives of an egg market improvement campaign to be undertaken by the Illinois department of agriculture and cooperating agencies, according to a communication issued to county farm advisers throughout the state by Stuart E. Pierson, Director of Agriculture.

In his letter to farm bureau leaders, the agricultural department head urged their cooperation because of the benefit that farmers, who have eggs to sell, will realize from an increased demand and higher prices.

"Poultry flock owners of Illinois," Mr. Pierson said, "are entitled to receive as much for eggs as do the poultrymen of other states. This can best be brought about by complete compliance with the laws that govern the marketing of eggs."

"The law," he explained, "states clearly that the first receiver must candle all the eggs he buys, and place certificates in every case that goes to market. If this were done, the eggs unfit for human food would seldom reach the market to dull the public's appetite for eggs, and thus cut down the price."

The department plans, as a feature of the egg campaign, to hold egg-candling demonstrations in every Illinois county. Representatives of the pure food forces, under the supervision of Perry B. McCullough, head of the division of foods and dairies, will be directed to work with local leaders in assembling the poultry farmers and egg dealers for these demonstrations. The necessity of candling eggs to meet requirements of the law and the importance of that plan of quality insurance and its benefits to producers and consumers alike, will be stressed at these meetings.

The director, in his letter, pointed out that there are about 10,000 licensed egg dealers in Illinois, and that to check the egg buying transactions is a task that requires cooperation on the part of the producers, who realize the indirect advantage through complete compliance with the law. He invited suggestions from all interested in egg productions, marketing and consumption, for the purpose of effecting improvement in the egg business of Illinois.

LOCAL PAPER TO BE PUBLISHED FOR MIDLOTHIAN

Today THE MIDLOTHIAN MESSENGER makes its first appearance. It is a weekly paper, issued on Friday, by The Midlothian Messenger Publishing Company, Not Inc., of 41st ave., Midlothian. The associates in this enterprise are William Semmler of Mokena, editor and publisher of The Tinley Park Times and The Mokena News-Bulletin, and Roy G. Andrews of Midlothian, formerly with the Blue Island Sun-Standard.

Although published in Midlothian the paper will cover the northern half of Bremen township. Local representatives will gather the news of the individual villages.

In selecting this territory for a local newspaper, the publishers are making no experiment. They know that a live newspaper can help the community and a live community will help the paper.

THE MESSENGER will be conducted as a strictly independent newspaper. In its news columns we pledge ourselves to give both sides of every question, to the best of our ability. In our editorial columns we shall feel free to advocate any measures that, in our judgment, will aid the community.

Any individual who may feel himself injured by the paper will be allowed to present his cause in a "Mail Box" column. However, injurious personalities and unsigned communications will be "counted out".

Each local organization will be invited to appoint a correspondent for its own group. Anyone is invited to write or phone in personal items. Constructive criticism will always be welcome.

If you, as a reader, consider this publication worth while and are interested in local affairs, we urge that you fill in the coupon on this page.

Larger Postoffice, Better Service Thought Certain

This week it appears certain that the post office will be moved into the Hill building. R. K. Cumming, postmaster, has completed arrangements for a lease from the Union bank of Chicago and the postal inspector has inspected and approved the new location, so the change seems certain.

Mr. Cumming will use the front store space for an up-to-date ice cream parlor and stationery store. On the Prairie street side will be the main entrance to the post office, with another entrance thru the store. Between the windows will be a money-order desk. Along three sides of the room will be located the 550 boxes—enough to supply all applicants. It is planned to remain open from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m., with no noon closing, but the room will remain open to boxholders until a much later hour. There will be two windows to take care of customers. The postmaster will be glad to get any suggestions in regard to service.

Legion to Sponsor Boys Ball Team

Midlothian Post 691 of the American Legion is very much interested in having a Junior Baseball team represent them this coming summer, in the League sponsored by the American Legion.

We believe that there is sufficient talent in Midlothian, so that a high-class team can represent the Post, and eventually work itself into the finals, and then to Junior World's series.

Games are to be played all summer against other Junior teams, and to the boys who are selected to represent Midlothian a lively summer is in store for them.

All boys up to sixteen years are eligible and those that are interested are requested to meet at Legion Hall, 147th and Crawford ave., Wednesday evening, May 14, at 8:15 o'clock.

SUMMER ROUND-UP OF PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Midlothian public school had their second annual Round-Up on May 1st at the Welfare station. There were 28 children examined. Mrs. Ida Mae Berdan was chairman of the Round-Up Committee. Mrs. R. Mason, President of the P. T. A. acted as receiving clerk. Mrs. Wm. Kreis and Mrs. F. Baker were in charge of arrangements; Mrs. R. K. Cummings and Mrs. L. R. Jones were on the transportation committee; and ten other members who conducted the Round-Up, going from house to house and registering all children who will start to kindergarten or school next September.

The object of this annual Round-Up is to have all Pre-School children examined by a physician and dentist to discover what repairs are needed before the child is started to school. Mr. Earl J. W. Pronger and Dr. A. W. Brookstra of Blue Island volunteered their services to the P. T. A. to make these examinations. We earnestly urge all parents who brought their children in for examination to follow the advice of the doctor and dentist and have all corrections made before school opens in September; and so start your child out in perfect physical health to aid in developing a strong, well balanced mentality.

Clean Up Week Big Success Says Nurse

By ELEANOR GALLAGHER
The citizens of Midlothian have been observing Clean-Up Week in a most thorough manner. The village board furnished a man and truck to haul away all rubbish.

The people of the village expressed their appreciation by raking and piling up all the refuse on their premises and having it in a convenient place to be picked up, with the result that a dozen truck loads of unsightly material left town in two days. The driver of the truck found that some of the alleys were wet; so he could not reach the material piled there.

We are saving one day of the three allowed us by the trustees until the alleys and roads are dry enough to permit a truck to drive over them. There will be an announcement in THE MESSENGER of this date set for hauling.

We feel that the Clean-Up is one of the finest things done by the village since it was incorporated, not only the fact that such a large amount of refuse has been taken away and thereby adding to the beauty of our town, but also because of the still bigger things we expect to develop from it.

First of which is the reclaiming of a two or three acre spot of prairie that had been given by John R. Robertson Real Estate company for a playground for the children of the village. A shelter and some swings have been installed "by whom I have been unable to learn"; but no care nor supervision has been furnished, and so these things have gotten into bad repair.

During the Clean-Up the Blue Birds, three groups of Camp Fire girls and two groups of Boy Scouts have taken a hand in cleaning up and repairing the equipment, but even with their best effort the playground cannot develop without the assistance of the man power and the women power of our village to back them up.

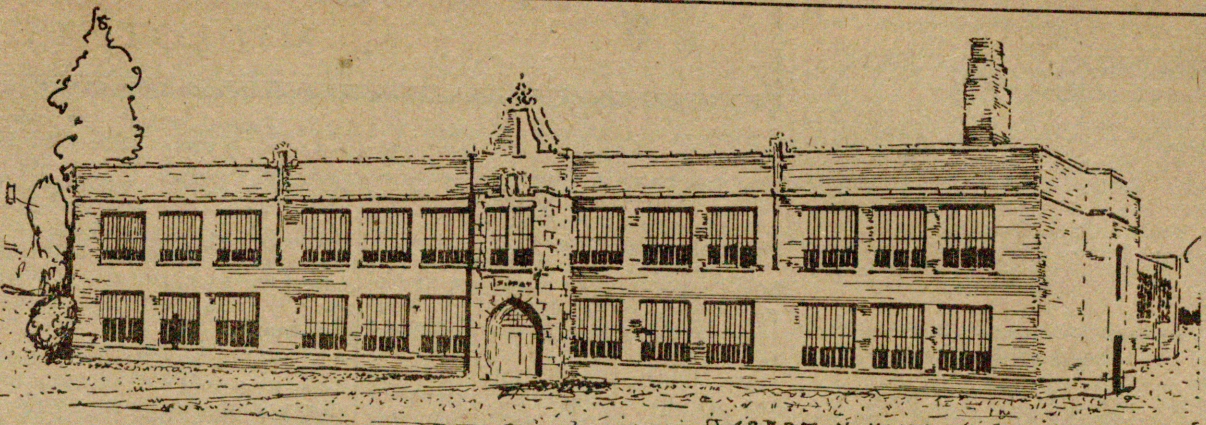

Clarence Zuchelkowski has been appointed by the American Legion to represent them in the playground work, and we are asking the Woman's Club, the Parent Teachers Association, and any other organized group in the village who would like to have a representative on the playground committee to send some one to a meeting that will be held, "the time and place to be announced later" to discuss ways and means of conducting the playground management.

Another question of interest that has developed from the Clean-Up is this: We know because of the fact that no taxes have been paid for the past few years, our Village Board, as all other municipalities, are short of funds and cannot employ a truck regularly to pick up refuse, but a number of citizens have expressed themselves as being willing to pay something towards having a truck pick up their refuse once a month, if there are enough people in town willing to do this, they could have a truck make the rounds once a month without costing any one much.

Raid Bandit Haunt At Markham

Lawrence and James, younger brother of "Smiling Jack" O'Brien, who was hanged for the murder of a policeman ten years ago, were seized with four other young men and two girls as members of a burglar gang Monday night when Capt. Michael Grady and Lieut. Walter Storms led a raid on a cottage at 167th street and Head avenue, Markham.

New Midlothian School—as It Will Appear When Completed

ROBERT M. HYDE ARCHITECT

Erected at a cost of $137,119, the new Midlothian School building will be one of the finest and best equipped in the south west towns. The contractor hopes to have the work finished by September.

The building, which will face on Harding ave., will be of fireproof construction; exterior will be of cut stone trim and brick. It will contain eleven rooms and a combined auditorium and gymnasium with a stage. There will be showers and a locker room. Wardrobes and bookcases will be built in. The heating plant will be contained in a connecting room; furnace will have two boilers; heating and ventilating will be controlled.

A fire stand pipe, hose and fire alarm system adds to its safety. The building is so constructed that more rooms can be added at either end. Just nine years ago Midlothian boasted a community school (then about two years old) that consisted of one room, one teacher and thirty-two pupils. At the present time there are six teachers, nine rooms and about 275 pupils.

Midlothian Business Prosperes

Although general business conditions are none too good, Midlothian firms are holding their own and some show remarkable advances. Especially is this true in the automobile line.

William Kreis of Kreis Bros., Durant agency reports that business is better in all respects than a year ago. Greatly increased storage space in the new building has helped materially. Clarke-Hulett state that sales of both new and used cars are exceeding sales of last year; they recently established a used car lot across the street from the garage.

After their anniversary sale, held a short time ago, the Blue Store and Market reported that business had almost doubled within a year. A new shelving system has just been installed to provide increased storage space.

The Midlothian Pool hall is moving into larger quarters in the former bakery building and putting two new Brunswick pool tables in. Light lunches and coffee will be served until midnight.

Ed. Reimer, of Reimer and Abbott, 147th and Cleveland, who established a store and feed business at that location last October, now has 65 customers for his feed and finds his business growing daily.

Woerheide Co., have more inquiries this spring than last, with prospects good. The company has no vacant houses; all homes have been sold.

Kososki Company, who recently organized a real estate and insurance business, also report many inquiries, most of which are for places to rent. They have established a nice insurance business.

Midlothian Hardware, by setting prices that compare favorably with those downtown, has a steadily growing business and will undoubtedly continue to grow with the town.

S. W. Wilson, in his new location, says business is better than it has ever been before.

Mrs. Fredholm, of Fredholm's Department Store, says their business did not fall off during the slump and is now steadily increasing.

KREIS BROS. TAKE FORD AGENCY

On May 4, Kreis Bros. became Ford dealers for Midlothian and surrounding territory. A full line of cars, trucks and parts will be carried.

Andrew Dillon Given Military Funeral

Andrew J. Dillon, who died in St. Francis hospital Monday, April 28, was buried at Holy Sepulcher cemetery with military honors on Thursday, May 1st. All night Wednesday guards of honor stood at his bier—his comrades from Midlothian Post 691, Howard Watkins, Dr. Rhein, Edward Sporer, Urban Widman, C. Neely, and Alfred Terry; and from Tinley Post, Charles Wallin.

Thursday morning the funeral rites were performed in St. Christophers church, Father Gratian officiating. A military procession conveyed the body to the cemetery, followed by 125 cars and some 600 mourners. After the church bestowed her last blessing at the grave, a firing squad from Ft. Sheridan fired a salute and the bugler sounded The pallbearers were his old pals, taps.

Andrew Dillon was born September 24, 1886. He is survived by his wife, Adeline, and three children, Jack, William and Anna Mary. His mother, Mrs. Katherine Dillon of Chicago, one brother and two sisters, Hubert, Ursula and Katherine.

For sixteen years he was a county employee, for three years he has lived in Midlothian, where he had helped organize and was a charter member of the Legion post; last year he was senior vice-commander of the post.

Arthur Boyd, and Charles Michels of the battleship "Connecticut" on which Mr. Dillon served in the war; Frank Lilly, Harvey Thormahlen of the local post; William Bromond, George Fefenberg of the county employees. Ten sailors from the "Connecticut" were honorary pallbearers.

The firing squad was composed of Corp. Harris, Privates Connors, Arend, Wollcott, Brandt, Conrad and Morse of troop B, 14th Cavalry.

Six hundred comrades at the 4th district meeting at the Lawndale-Crawford post on Tuesday night stood at attention for one minute to honor the departed.

"Another comrade has been called by the High Command. He has gone to report to the Commander of All. We were proud to honor the memory of our departed comrade. We will remember his fellowship within the post and his loyalty to the traditions and ideals of the American Legion."

25th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

Twenty-five years ago a week ago Wednesday, a wedding procession left Robbins for the First Lutheran church in Blue Island. The bride, a dashing young fellow in black clothes and derby hat, was driven in a carriage with his prospective father-in-law as immaculate driver in tall silk hat guided by two bay horses.

The bride, in trailing blue gown, and white veil, rode with her prospective mother-in-law in a hack drawn by two milk

white horses.

Otto Ziebell,

Bremen township supervisor and

school Dist. 143,

was the groom.

Louise Haase was the happy bride.

After the ceremony, at which

Prof. Henry De-

man officiated in

Blue Island, the couple returned home by a different route to avoid merrymakers. But at 139th and

Sacramento a bridge was roped off and Mr. Ziebell had to make a liberal donation.

That evening groups gathered to chivaree them. Of course the groom had to make another donation. The crowd left, went to Blue Island, spent the money and returned to bang tin pans again. This time they were treated to cake and a barrel of beer.

Robbins, in those days was a community of farms—no colored families had moved in. The following day the newly wedded couple came to their home at 147th st. and Cleveland, where they still live in their remodeled home. In dry weather they could drive on 147th st. in wet they could stay home. The nearest neighbors were at the Peetz place in Posen; to the north the nearest was at 145th st.

Most of the guests have passed away. But the best man, H. J.

Haase and Ewald W. Ziebell are still living; as are the bridesmaids, Ida

Schwartz and Niesje Dyke.

So Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Ziebell recalled old times and spent a quiet day with their son, Otto, jr.,

daughter-in-law, and a grand child,

Charles Ziebell, III. They received a lovely bouquet of white carnations and red roses from a nephew, John

Haase, jr., and many messages of congratulations.

Bremen Reps. In Annual Election

Heintz, president; Otto Ziebell jr., vice president; Edward A. Reimer, S. E. Nichols, Winfield Roessner, Charles J. Debring, Clarence H. Goessel, Paul A. Swanson, trustees; Otto Ziebell, secretary-treasurer; and George G. (Dad) Watson, sergeant-at-arms.

The club has recently lost two officers by death—A. W. Fulton and L. J. LaFond. W. G. Hudson has moved back to the city.

For publicity the following committee was selected; Clarence H. Goessel, Roy G. Andrews and Otto Ziebell. Meeting dates have been changed to the first and third Mondays of the month. At the next meeting, on May 19, there will be installation of officers.

Air Marker To Advertise Midlothian

Acting on suggestions of American Legion headquarters this village is to have a huge sign marking the place for aviation.

On March 15, K. Sidell, commander of the American Legion, Midlothian post 691 received a letter from the office of the national commander of Indianapolis, Ind., personally dictated by national commander O. L. Bodenhamer, who has outlined a program for this post in its work for the year of 1930. Part of this letter reads as follows:

"I want you to do the following as a minimum program in good citizenship and community service—the very least that any Post should do in 1930—starting now, today, on the Legion's birthday, March 15th, and letting your community know that you are performing this worthwhile service.

1. Organize and sponsor at least one Boy Scout Troop.
2. Organize and foster Junior Baseball Teams.
3. Promote a "Safety First" Campaign.
4. Install or help install a park or playground where the boys and girls can play this summer.
5. Mark your town for aviation, see that the name of your city is painted on the top of some building for the benefit of aviators."

Commander Sidell has appointed committees to work out this campaign for good citizenship and community service and the following progress has been reported by A. E. Clifton, chairman of the committee on aviation.

The Clarke-Hulett Chevrolet Company has gladly given permission to the American Legion of Midlothian Post 691 to use the top of their garage for marking the town of Midlothian for the benefit of aviation and aviators. A. E. Clifton called on the Municipal airport at 63rd and Cicero Ave., and the different Aviation Companies are very much in favor of this marking. They claim that it will be a wonderful help to aviators who are flying toward that airport. He also called on the Department of Commerce at the flying field and they now have a committee working with the Legion on this matter. They have furnished a booklet on Air Marking published by the Department of Commerce, Aeronautics Branch, Washington, which gives plans and general requirements for air marking.

The following is the plan for the marking of the roof: There will be two words, "Midlothian", one reading from the north and one reading from the south. The letters of these words will be 7 feet high and the length of the word will be 65 feet. On the west end of the building the word Chicago and the figures 12 indicating the mileage to the nearest airport will be encased in a large arrow 57x13 1-2 ft. pointing toward Chicago.

On the east end of the building there will be a Meridian Marker, this being a large arrow 7 ft. wide and 42 feet long with the letter N in the center pointing toward the north. This marking will be visible from a height of 5000 to 10,000 ft. All markings are in accordance with the specifications of the Chamber of Commerce and work will begin within the next two weeks, this work being done by the members of the American Legion, Midlothian Post No. 691.

ALTAR AND ROSARY TO HOLD FLOWER SALE

The Mothers Day Flower Sale given by the Altar and Rosary Society will be held at the Midlothian depot, Saturday, May 10th. Orders will also be taken for Decoration Day, and special prices given at this sale.

Conservatives To Give Grand Ball Saturday

The Conservatives party of Midlothian will hold its First Grand Ball on Saturday, May 10, at Kreis Bros. hall. Music will be furnished by Blessing's orchestra.

The party is now organized as a permanent body, according to its officers. The purpose of the ball is to permit all members and their friends to get better acquainted.

WHO'S WHO

in MIDLOTHIAN

Richard J. White, president of the Board of trustees of the village, was born in Chicago, March 4, 1885. There he completed grammar school and graduated from the DeLaSalle Institute. He married Nell C. Wolfe of De Witt, Iowa, on May 19, 1913. They have three girls, Mary, Margaret, Julia, and one boy, Richard Jr.

Mr. White has lived in Chicago and vicinity all his life, except for several years spent as office manager of a large lumber concern in Flagstaff, Arizona. There he also served as secretary of the Northern Arizona Normal school for two years.

At the present time, and for the past three years, he has been auditor for Midlothian Country Club. In 1927, when the village was incorporated, he was elected village clerk, but circumstances made it necessary to appoint a deputy. Last year he was elected president of the board.

(Editor's Note—Under this head, from time to time, will appear short sketches of prominent people in the village. It is our belief that in this way we will become better acquainted one with the other.)

Are you acquainted with our genuine bargains? If not you should be. Last week, for example, we sold 4 cans of Kitchen Klenzer for 19c—actually below cost. Campbell's Pork and Beans at 3 cans for 22c and Chipso 2 packages for 37c are cost prices. Butter is also sold at the lowest possible price.

We can do this because we are privately owned—not a chain store—but we buy at chain store prices. Mr. Baerlin is a pioneer Midlothian resident—Mr. Mills is also a resident of the village. We are interested in building up the community.

Watch this space for our exceptionally low prices on the most items.

MOKENA

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH
Harold C. Sandall, pastor
Sunday School will begin at 10 o'clock Central Standard time from now on during the summer. The attendance has been keeping up to normal. With a little extra effort on everyone's part we can increase the attendance during the spring months.

Next Sunday being Mother's Day the services will be built around that theme. No higher tribute could be paid to ones mother than to evidence his presence at a church service in her honor.

The Ladies Aid met in the home of Mrs. Fred Cappel on Thursday afternoon.

The many friends of Carl Wachter and Miss Hazel Klose were given a pleasant surprise the past week when the news leaked out that they were quietly married about six weeks ago. A group of little folks chartered them and on Sunday night the "big folks" also serenaded them.

Mr. Wachter is engaged in the engraving business and is employed by the Joliet Engraving Co.

Both young people are popular in their respective social circles and their host of friends wish them much happiness. They expect to go to housekeeping in the Benson dwelling next to the Mall Lumber Yard.

The Woods property in Mokena is to be sold to the highest bidder at a Master in Chancery sale at the Mokena State Bank next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to satisfy the claims of creditors. E. J. Woods, the owner of the property disappeared mysteriously several years ago and no trace has ever been found of him.

The signal bridge across the east bound main tracks of the Rock Island near the Bowman Dairy plant is in operation again. This bridge was wrecked last fall when a pile driver boom became tangled with it. The damage resulting from the wreck ran into several thousands of dollars.

The second dance of the season given by the Mokena Men's Club at their pavilion south of town Saturday night was well attended.

The seven little wolf cubs recently discovered on the Krapp farm are still the center of attraction. The parent wolves have not been discovered.

Mrs. Robert Kreis of St. Louis is caring for her daughter, Mrs. Milton Krapp who recently returned from a Chicago hospital where she was a patient for many weeks. She is improving nicely.

Mrs. Hugo Niethammer who has been nursing her grandmother, Mrs. Nicholas Lauffer for weeks, has returned to her home in St. Louis. Mrs. Conrad Noel of Joliet is the nurse in charge now.

The Camp Fire Girls met Saturday afternoon in the home of their guardian, Miss Bertha Benson. Two new members, Eleanor Hall, and Grace Moriarity, were enrolled. Following the business session a hike to the woods was enjoyed.

The village board is expecting to set a date for the annual village cleanup within a week or two.

According to present plans the Marti school north of Mokena which has been closed for a number of years, may be re-opened this fall. There are twenty children of school age in the district now and it is estimated it will be cheaper to hire a teacher and re-open the school than to pay tuition to the Mokena school.

The St. Mary Catholic cemetery is being improved. Paths of crushed stone have been built, the driveway has been repaired and the cemetery in general has been beautified.

Harvey Frick is proving quite an active real estate agent. He has a number of properties in the village listed with him for sale. He has sold two of these properties and has several other deals coming off.

A window in the Rock Island telegraph office was broken one night last week when a chunk of coal from a passing train struck it.

Albert Hentsch former Mokena boy, now located in Joliet, has joined a glider club organized in Joliet. He is very much interested in aviation and has made a solo flight.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cooper have been visiting in St. Louis with their daughter, Mrs. Hugo Niethammer and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bruene of Kempton; Miss Catherine Frain and John Lowe of Chicago spent Sunday with the Will Lowe family.

Miss Jewel is staying in the home of W. G. Lowe for a few days. Miss Jewel is a representative of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society and is canvassing the town for the good of the society.

EDWARD STRUKE, MANAGER

She's through in a jiffy!

Her housework is done in almost no time. When her friends ask, "Does a telephone in the kitchen really help," she tells them, "Of course it does. Friends call me when I'm in the kitchen but it only takes a minute to answer. I order my groceries and other supplies from the kitchen telephone... it saves my time and steps."

Extension telephones, wisely placed in your home, will save lots of your time and innumerable steps. When you attend to your household tasks in the kitchen, it's a real convenience to have a telephone at hand. You never waste time and energy running elsewhere to use your telephone. Tinley Poultry Farms Attract City Attention

Raising poultry on the Grover Elmore plan as is being done in Tinley Park, has created much interest in Chicago and the following article by Calvin C. Bowsfield a special writer, appeared in the Chicago Herald Examiner, Wednesday morning:

Direct marketing of farm products gets its best local illustration at the Elmore poultry project in Tinley Park.

This season poultry owners there are selling $1,000 worth of eggs each week. Two trucks distribute the product in the south and west sections of Chicago on a guaranty that the eggs are less than forty-eight hours old.

With all hens fed on a scientific formula and housed in sanitary pens, the public is willing to pay more than ordinary farm eggs bring. The hens are pure-bred and are selected for those qualities which experts claim are the best. Illinois farmers could get a valuable lesson here.

100,000 CHICKS FURNISHED
Grover C. Elmore is the founder of this enterprise. He has furnished to home owners there 100,000 chickens since last February. It is expected the production of eggs and broilers will double this season. He has always believed direct marketing is necessary to secure satisfactory prices for products which naturally must be consumed while fresh.

The individual poultry owner has from half an acre to an acre and a half. When possession of property is taken, dwellings and poultry houses are constructed with modern appointments. Without being tied up by contract, owners have the privilege of buying feed through the organization and of marketing eggs and poultry under the company's system.

MAY WORK IN CITY
Nearly all families who now live in the Tinley Park section which is devoted to the poultry industry, moved from congested parts of the city. Each has a comfortable home in a rural situation, but the men can have their employment in Chicago while placing their poultry plants on a paying basis.

Profits earned by these owners are sufficient to make them independent and secure. The families have school and social advantages, and there is a good community spirit.

A number of professional men and others holding responsible positions have become owners of the little farms at Tinley Park.

The "Good Old Days" Are Gone!

You've heard how grandfather had to chop his way down to cold water in the morning before he could wash. How when he heated water in the teakettle it was for thawing out the pump and not for shaving... Those were the good old days.

But in 1930, we've left the old days a long way behind. So why not enjoy the modern conveniences of our modern age. Instead of waiting ten or fifteen minutes for hot water every time you need it, why not have it instantly at the turn of a faucet. The old way surely wasn't better—and the new way isn't expensive.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

L. C. STEPHENS, Dist. Mgr. Joliet, Ill. Phone 1250

Hiram L. Williamson
Illinois State Representative

Establishment of a state-wide system of parks, recreation grounds and memorials is under consideration by the department of public works and buildings, Director H. H. Cleveland has announced. With the approval of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, the department also plans to reclaim and improve every important spot that is halowed by history, as well as establish the chain of parks and recreational grounds. Director Cleveland mentioned specifically the creation of a memorial to fearless Gen. George Rogers Clark on the site of old Fort Kaskaskia on a high bluff overlooking the confluence of the Okaw river with the Mississippi river. Illinois ranks foremost among the states in its park system. There is no better way to spend a vacation than in becoming acquainted with our parks.

In an opinion filed in the office of Charles W. Vail, clerk of the Supreme court, the court reversed a decision of the Circuit court of Sangamon county in the case known as the "beauty culture case." In passing upon the case the Supreme court said that it is unreasonable to require persons desiring to become beauty culturists practicing upon women, as a necessary qualification for cutting the hair of women, to spend 1,248 hours in a school or college of barbering and two and one-half years as an apprentice in a barber shop learning to shave men and trim their whiskers, a thing entirely foreign to the trade for which they desire to qualify.

New and stricter safety regulations to minimize the life hazard in handling and dispensing gasoline have been announced through State Fire Marshal S. L. Legreid, by Leo H. Lowe, director of trade and commerce in Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's cabinet. The revised regulations also apply to bulk and retail storage of gasoline, filling stations, garages, fuel cleaning plants, alcohol storage, fuel oil and fuel oil burners, and the use of gasoline and volatile oils in general.

Illinois is paying for keeping the wolf away—that is, it is paying a bounty of $20 on each bona fide wolf scalp. Of the $20,000 that the Illinois state legislature appropriated last year "for bounty on wolves," the first four $20 rewards have been issued by Director Stuart E. Pierson of the department of agriculture to four men in Pike county.

Among the novel features of the coming Well Equipped Home exposition to be held in Springfield from May 19 to 24, will be an ideal village, in miniature, covering 450 square feet, built to show how a town can be laid out so that every house in it will front on a park. The exposition will be under the auspices of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

A minor amendment to the Illinois motor vehicle act is paying into the road fund of the state treasury more than $10,000 a year, according to an announcement of Secretary of State William J. Stratton. The amendment, which places a letter before the numerals on the license plates for automobile trucks, was 50 words long and before this year ends will have added $500,000 to the fees collected from this class of vehicles.

Predicting that the federal government soon will take over and complete the Illinois waterway, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson in an address before the southern Illinois district convention of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce urged the manufacturers of the state to concentrate on the development of South American markets for their products. The governor also discussed the future of southern Illinois, the "Egypt" of the Middle West, declaring that the development of a community spirit in southern Illinois in the past five years, and with the co-operation of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, worthwhile steps have been taken to develop the greatest resources of the region.

Contracts totalling $2,750,345.70 for the first series of projects in the state's 1930 road building program have been awarded by Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets. These projects include the paving of 121.07 miles of road, 28.02 miles of grading, the construction of 16 bridges, the removal of one bridge, and the construction of a sidewalk on an existing bridge.

Dr. James L. Greene, former assistant of the state of Illinois, died recently in Hot Springs, Ark.

At the annual conference of Parents and Teachers held at Evanston April 22-24, a county library exhibit was shown by the library extension division, Springfield. The idea demonstrated was that book delivery service direct to the rural readers from a larger stock of books at a central county library is very desirable. Miss Anna May Price, of the library extension division, who prepared the exhibit, firmly believes that country people and those who live in small towns and villages should have as easy access to books as do city people.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson gave recognition May 1 to Col. Frank D. Whipp's long service in the state's department of welfare by appointing him to head the Illinois delegation to the International Prison conference at Prague, Czechoslovakia, August 25 to 30. Colonel Whipp, who is now superintendent of prisons, has been closely connected with the state's welfare work for more than forty years, starting as a messenger boy for the late Dr. Fred H. Wines, the first secretary of the old state board of charities. Colonel Whipp was appointed superintendent of prisons in July, 1929. Prior to that he had been bookkeeper, traveling auditor, chief clerk, assistant secretary of the board of charities, administrative auditor, member and fiscal supervisor of the first board of public welfare, superintendent of the St. Charles school for boys, superintendent of the state school for the deaf, acting assistant director of the department of welfare and general superintendent of the Illinois State reformatory.

Douglas Pattison, Freeport, minority leader in the state legislature more than a score of years ago and once the Democratic nominee for governor, died April 25 as the result of a fall from the rear of an Illinois Central train in Chicago.

During the construction season this year, Illinois will employ an average of 1,200 maintenance men and may spend three and a quarter millions of dollars to repair the ravages of winter to its system of more than 8,000 miles. Through the highway department alone, the state will give employment, direct and indirect, to an estimated 31,000 men during the season.

John Millhouse, head of the state department of mines and minerals, has been named to the directorate of the State Mine Chiefs association of America. The association was formed at a meeting of the Pittsburgh station of the United States Bureau of Mines.

If you would like to have pheasant eggs for setting purposes, you can get them by writing to John Haberkorn, superintendent of game farms, Princeton, Ill. The eggs are now ready for free distribution by the state of Illinois and requests will be filled in the order received. The supply is limited. Therefore, if you are interested in pheasant eggs for setting purposes, you should make your wants known immediately.

An embargo on cattle suffering from Bang's disease is now in effect by virtue of a proclamation issued by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Imported cattle from other states must be accompanied by a certificate stating that they have been duly inspected and are free from the disease which is causing great losses in the cattle industry.

With the purpose of placing the Illinois poultry industry on a basis comparable with that of other states, the Illinois department of agriculture and co-operating agencies will undertake an egg market improvement campaign, Director Stuart E. Pierson, of the state department of agriculture, has notified county farm advisers.

Mrs. Alice Dunn, seventy, wife of Supreme Court Justice Frank K. Dunn, died at her home in Charleston recently after a long illness.

The inventories of state property filed in the office of Oscar Nelson, auditor of public accounts, total $107,168,941. Lesson for May 11

JESUS ACCLAIMED AS KING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:1-46.
GOLDEN TEXT—Hosanna to the son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Children's Praise Song.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Hailing Jesus as King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making Christ Our King.

I. The Preparation (vv. 1-6).

1. The sending of the disciples for the ass (vv. 1-3).
Christ told them just where to go to find it and how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly Jesus knows our ways. The providing of the animal was not man's plan, but according to Christ's foreknowledge.

2. The fulfillment of prophecy (vv. 4, 5).

Some five hundred years before this, Zechariah had made this prediction (Zech. 9:9). Christ's coming in this way was in exact fulfillment of Zechariah's prediction. This is highly instructive to those who would understand as yet unfulfilled prophecy. If the predictions of His first coming were thus literally fulfilled, there is no alternative but to believe that those of His second coming will likewise be literally fulfilled.

3. The obedience of the disciples (v. 6).

The request may have seemed strange and unreasonable, but they obeyed.

II. The Entrance of the King (vv. 7-11).

1. The disciples put their garments upon the ass and set the Lord thereon (v. 7).
This act showed that they recognized Him as their King (II Kings 9:13).

2. The multitude (vv. 8, 9).

Some spread their garments in the way; others who had no garments to spare, cut down branches and did the same with them.

3. The city awakened (vv. 10, 11).

It was a stirring time, but a more stirring time is to come. This will be when the Lord comes in power and glory.

III. The King Rejected (vv. 12-16).

The immediate occasion of this rejection was the cleansing of the temple. To sell oxen and sheep and doves was legitimate, as well as to exchange money in doing it, but doing it for gain was wrong. As soon as the spirit of avarice enters, the house of prayer becomes a den of thieves.

IV. The Nation Rejected by the King (vv. 17-46).

Having shown their unwillingness to receive Christ as King when officially presented to them, Christ now turns from them and makes known their awful condition in the following parables:

1. The barren fig tree cursed (vv. 17-22).

It was on the morrow after his official presentation as He was returning from Jerusalem that Jesus observed the unfruitful fig tree. The barren fig tree is a type of Israel. With its leaves, it gave a show of life, but being destitute of fruit, it had no right to cumber the ground.

2. The parable of the two sons (vv. 23-32).

Both sons were told by the father to work in the vineyard. The one refused outright to obey, but afterwards repented and went. The other pretended a willingness to obey, but in reality did not. The first one represents the publicans and harlots. The second the proud and self-righteous Pharisees—priests and elders.

3. The parable of the householder (vv. 30-46).

(1) This was God Himself. (2) The vineyard. This means Israel (Isa. 5:1-7, Jer. 2:21, Ps. 80:9). The Lord went to particular pains to gather out this nation and make it separate, bestowing peculiar favors upon it. This vineyard so well kept and provided for, did not bear fruit. (3) The husbandmen. These were the spiritual guides—the rulers and teachers of Israel. (4) The servants were sent for the fruit of the vineyard. These were the various prophets whom God sent to the nation. They were beaten and killed. (5) The Lord Jesus Christ, God's only and beloved Son, came into their midst. They knew Him to be the Son, but did not show Him reverence. They not only rejected the kingdom, but the King who was the Son.

A Great Will

Look at a great life, and you will find a great will behind it. But it is not self-will; it is a will attuned to that of God. Therefore it goes forward on the road of victory.—Young People.

Believing in God

There is nothing, in fact, that you can undertake with so great hopefulness and assurance as a victory over yourselves if only you can believe in God.—Horace Bushnell.

Truth and Nothing But, in Doctor's Statement

In asking for the appointment of an unknown man for a rather important federal appointment in his state, Senator Borah said:

"The position calls for a natural-born diplomat and that is what I consider Doctor Blank to be. A successful country doctor has to be a diplomat or he won't survive."

"One day, this chap I've recommended was calling on a cantankerous old man who had collapsed while plowing."

"You say my heart is weak, rasped the old man. 'Do you mean that it's liable to give out on me any time?'"

"Bless you, no!" exclaimed the diplomat. "That heart of yours will last a lifetime."—Los Angeles Times.

Children Find Millions

Children playing hide-and-seek in an abandoned monastery in the Volga region of Russia discovered treasure chests containing gold, silver and jewelry to the value of several millions of rubles. Seeking hiding places they removed a pile of lumber heaped in a corner, and underneath they found a passage leading to the treasure chamber. Similar finds have been made in other parts of Russia, the treasure generally having been hidden and left by czars in their flight.

Marble Vein Relocated

What promises to be an important event in Vermont marble fields is the discovery of a large deposit of pure white statuary marble in the quarries at Middlebury. Sixty years ago there was a small deposit of this stone worked in Middlebury and so famous did the stone become that nearly all the prominent sculptors of that day used the marble. After a time the vein was lost and after many efforts to find it again the owners of the quarry were obliged to give up the search.

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship is sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. The crew surrenders, but Fellowes reaches shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl, who conceals her identity. She is about to set out for Lisbon. Fellowes goes to Lisbon where he meets an acquaintance, Capt. Chater of the American ship True Bounty, who offers him a berth as a mate, but knowing Chater is disloyal in trading with the enemy, he refuses. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Inglepin, daughter of the owner of True Bounty. She is bound for home and induces Fellowes to sail as mate. He is in love with Cara. The vessel is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Captain Collishawe. Despite his claims to American citizenship, Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger a "pressed" man. Maddened at what he believes is Cara's and Chater's treachery he strikes Collishawe, who orders him a hundred lashes with the "cat." Fellowes' hatred of the three becomes an obsession. Off New York Fellowes escapes from the Badger.

CHAPTER V—Continued

The venture assumed the aspect of a nightmare. He was being crushed between black water and darkness, the air squeezed from his laboring lungs, a deadly pressure numbing his heart. Time ceased to have meaning. Space was illimitable. He was conscious simply of splashing wearily, of intervals when he was tempted to subside under the next wave, of recurring spells of battle. He came to himself at last, treading water feebly, Cuffee pummeling his face and chest, a dull roaring in his ears.

"Mars'r Fellowe," pleaded the negro. "Mars'r Fellowe! We go fo' surf. Yo' bear? Dat him surf?"

Fellowes acceded drunkenly.

"Where's Tom?"

Cuffee indicated a dripping burden lashed to his belt by the remnants of his shirt.

"Tom plenty wet, mebbe him drown'.

But we go fo' surf—quick! Yo' no! Cuffee tight. Cuffee pull yo' two! No! him whale pull boat. Yo' see!"

Fellowes was too tired to argue longer. He suffered his fingers to be hooked into the negro's belt, and floated supine, marveling at the undiminished vigor with which Cuffee slashed into the rollers. After a few strokes he was stung to renewed effort, himself, paddling dog-fashion with one arm and kicking his feet, albeit sluggishly. In the darkness they were blind, steering by sound rather than eyesight, and both were surprised when their feet touched bottom. Cuffee, with a grunt of satisfaction, tossed Tom over one shoulder and grasped Fellowes by the arm, striding out against the suck of the undertow as easily as though he walked a level deck. And while Fellowes collapsed on the dry sand, panting and muscle-cramped, Cuffee set to work on Tom, and had him choking and coughing by the time the Long Islander was sitting up. An irate person, Tom—"Fine pair o' messmates!" "Tain't yer fault I wasn't drowned." "Never be the same man, I won't!" "Oughter be, keelhauled, ye had!"

"Just the same, you're a free man tonight," exclaimed Fellowes with his first whole breath. "Free of 'Crimpin' Collishawe. An American again! We're as good as home, Tom. This is my land—the Point o' Woods, at the west end of the island. My herders' shack is on the far side of the forest, behind the dunes."

Fellowes led the three at a stiff-legged trot over the dunes, until they emerged upon the island's opposite shore. Close at hand a cordial glow poured from the open door of a lightly built structure, together with the pleasant odor of bacon and a singsong hum of voices.

Fellowes approached the door, his companions crowding his heels.

"—Jes as I'm atellin' ye, Joe," one of the voices was saying. "He come back nex' night, and he looked like he'd seed a ghost. Ses he: 'Twas that air slaver cap'n—over to P'int o' Woods. Ha'nted me, he did. All night. Come 'n' wailed into my ear. 'Whar's my head?' he'd holler. 'Whar's my—'"

"Lord!" moaned another voice. "Here he be, head 'n' all!"

Fellowes, peering in the doorway, saw two frightened figures cowering in a corner of the hut, but no sign of a "ha'nt" until he happened to glance sideways. Then he chuckled. Cuffee, curious as to these strangers, had struck his head in a convenient window. The negro's scarred features, atop of his glistening naked torso were sufficient to affright any yokels already bent on frightening themselves.

"Haven't you seen a black man before?" called Fellowes, stepping inside. "Paris Eaches! And Joe Doak. Well, well, boys—"

"Another ha'nt," gasped Doak. "Oh, Squire Fellowes, be kind like ye used to, and go back to the grave, and leave us poor fellows be."

Fellowes laughed outright.

"You'd better try the zanies, Tom," he invited. "Here, Paris, Joe! Ever see anyone more like a live sailor?"

The pair were fascinated by Tom's gargoyle visage and grotesque figure. "Be—be—ye really Squire Fellowes?" quavered Eaches.

"Feel my hand," Fellowes bade him. "Cuss me, but that's flesh 'n' blood." he confessed. "But how 'n' tim'd ye git here, squire? We heard tell ye was pressed by Collishawe."

"Tis a long story," Fellowes answered grimly. "Is Saul Chater in Babylon?"

"Ever sence he come home from Portugal," Eaches replied, a trifle shamefaced. "But who ye got with ye, squire?"

"Two men who escaped with me off the Badger. Collishawe and a landing party are bound for Babylon tonight. I want to take them. Have you a boat here?"

"My teetle ducker," responded Doak. "She's a durned handy craft, if I do say so."

"Get her ready. We must scud for it. Hurry! Every minute counts." He set an example by seizing a roll of blankets; Cuffee helped Eaches collect the provisions; Doak slipped out with an apologetic: "Git the anchor up. Ye'll have to wade to her," and Tom brought up the rear.

"We're as Good as Home, Tom."

The ducker was an almost flat-bottomed craft, an elongated triangle in shape, with a single leg-o'-mutton sail, capable of astonishing speed before the wind. Just the feel of her slimy floorboards under the bare feet stimulated Fellowes' self-respect. She was a boat, and he was captain aboard her; and the realization helped him to slough off the last trace of the subordination the Badger's iron discipline had ground into his soul. His voice cracked with the crisp authority of the quarterdeck. "Get that sail up, Paris! Joe, you take the tiller. Cuffee and Tom, tie up in the bow."

"We'll make a spy run with this wind," Joe Doak announced as the sail filled. "Wouldn't be s'prised if we done it in two hours to Sampawams creek—land ye slick as a whistle at the Manor dock, squire."

"No, we'll have to run into East creek," replied Fellowes. "The Britishers will be at Saul Chater's farm and I don't hanker to go near them. Unarmed. How are we going to catch Collishawe's party? Have you any militia?"

"For sartain," Joe spoke up proudly. "Thar's the Fencibles."

"Who's in it?"

"All o' us—Nimrod Sopher's cap'n." Fellowes deliberated for some minutes.

"I'll tell you what," he decided finally. "As soon as we land, Paris had better go wake up Sopher. The rest of us—I suppose the Widow Rhodes still has the Pig and Farmer at the crossroads? 'Tis a convenient place to rally at. Joe, you can be waking other lads in the village. I think I'll get some sleep while I can." He had rolled himself in a blanket

Five Simple Rules for Keeping Good Health

Practical inference from the views of an eminent physician are so simple that they are almost trite, and yet they are fundamental. If you want to keep out of the repair shop and make your own body "tick" vigorously and regularly, don't rely on drugs, but co-operate with nature in five ways:

- 1—Drink an abundance of water to keep your cells in condition.
- 2—Sleep at least eight hours out of each 24 to maintain your batteries.
- 3—Regulate your diet carefully so your body will be adequately nourished, and don't "dig your grave with your teeth" by overeating.
- 4—Get plenty of fresh air, especially when you are sleeping.
- 5—Exercise regularly to rebuild worn tissues, increase blood circulation and develop new cells.

under the herders' feet when a sudden thought occurred to him. "Have you heard if Chater has visitors at the farm?" he asked, sitting up.

"By heck, I'd plumb forgot," exclaimed Eaches. "Couple o' women, squire, and the feller to Noo Yawk owns Chater's ship."

Fellowes laughed harshly. "I expected they'd be there. Wake me when you make in for the East creek."

He was asleep almost as soon as his head touched the floorboards. Every thing was happening as he had intended. Success he no longer doubted.

CHAPTER VI

At the General Armstrong

Doak's hand on his ankle awakened Fellowes with all his senses alert. No light showed against the curtain of the night, no noise came from the shore.

"Seems as though the Britishers were mortal quiet," whispered Eaches. "They don't want to be seen here," returned Fellowes. "Look sharp, Joel! There's a landing."

"Twill do," acknowledged Doak, and slid the ducker inshore beside a rickety wharf.

Their feet clattered on loose boards, then pattered soundlessly on the earthen roadway paralleling the creek.

"Waal, I turn off here for Sopher's," Eaches announced. "I'll knock at every door I pass. Joe, ye better work west."

"I'll rattle up the bull durned village," promised Doak.

Eaches vanished behind the trees, and at the next lane Doak left them, with a brief, "See ye at the Widder's."

The others soon emerged upon a wider thoroughfare, sprinkled liberally with houses, the largest of which, directly opposite, was distinguished by a signboard, creaking gently in the breeze as it swung above the street. In the stable yard beside it stood a dilapidated stagecoach.

"Jeff Riggie must have been late driving out from Brooklyn," exclaimed Fellowes. "Mrs. Rhodes is still up. This is luck."

The lighted window was open, and a spatter of argument carried clearly to the fugitives. "I never heard such foolishness! Ye be'n adrinkin', Jeff. Thar's what ye be'n." "No, I ain't, M'randy. I seed him as nigh as ye be. A greaat, tall man, dressed like a English sailor, and a oaked cutlass in one hand and pistol in t'other. And he stuck the pistol into my stummick, and says he: 'Is this the Babylon road?' and ses I: 'It be.' And ses he: 'Git along it, mate.' And I seed mebbe three-four more dressed like he wore."

"A likely tale," scoffed the woman.

Fellowes snatched aside the window curtain.

"But true, Mrs. Rhodes," he said.

"Another one," squawked Riggie. "And look to that evil naygur with him!"

But Mrs. Rhodes was unperturbed. She rose from the table at which she had been sitting, six feet of gaunt, capable bone and muscle, and stalked to the window.

"Now, see here, my man," she asserted sternly, "no nightwalker, be he English or American, ever had aught out of M'randy Rhodes. I've a musket handy, and—God bless my soul, 'tis Squire Fellowes! Where in the name o' Providence did ye come from, sir, that Saul Chater told us were pressed off'n his ship. Dear, dear, dear! Come in, sir, come in. And who have ye thar? Land's sake, that nigger's as tall as some o' Jeff Riggie's stories!"

"Huh, ye better not talk so brash, M'randy," growled Riggie. "I said I seed a Englishman, and it 'pears like I did."

"Ye saw that nigger o' squire's—"

"No, he saw a real English sailor, Mrs. Rhodes," interrupted Fellowes. "We've just escaped off the Badger. Captain Collishawe's ship. She's lying outside the Inlet, and Collishawe and twenty men should be at Saul Chater's this moment—they came ashore in the longboat."

To Mothers

God bless mothers
And keep them in His care—
Your mother—my mother—
Mothers everywhere.

Show them special blessings,
For the task assigned
Surely needs more courage
Than one heart can find.

Never man can vision,
Only God can say
What the crown of motherhood
Calls for day by day.

Sacrifice and giving,
Patience, tender care,
Love beyond all telling,
Faith and hope and prayer.

God bless mothers
And keep them in His care—
Your mother—my mother—
Mothers everywhere.

Day's Meaning

Mother's day is essentially dedicated to the protection of the home and all that implies. In its more obvious aspects it is a reminder of a personal duty, from every son to every mother, but it suggests, too, the obligation of all sons to all mothers. It is broad in spirit, catholic in conception and admits no narrowness of interpretation.

In a summary of the accomplishments which it was hoped would result from the general celebration of Mother's day, and the proper observances connected with the anniversary, its founder, Miss Anna Jarvis, said:

Object—To honor and uplift motherhood and to give comfort and happiness to "the best mother that ever lived—your mother."

Observance—Loving remembrance of your mother (or her memory) through some distinct act of kindness, visit or letter.

Display the flag in honor of patriotic women, especially the mothers whose sons have rendered service to our country.

Floral badge—A white flower, preferably a carnation, or your mother's favorite flower. Give one to some one else to wear and remember the sick or unfortunate in hospitals and homes.

Time of observance—The second Sunday in May annually; in schools on an appropriate week day.

Give Some Thought to Mother's Leisure Time

Did it ever occur to you that you sometimes can be selfish with your mother simply because you are so fond of her? That is, you can be so fond of her that you want to take all her spare time yourself instead of sharing her with others. It may be pleasant to have your mother at home with you all the time. You may miss her when she is away, but don't forget that she ought to go out. Other people want a share in your mother, too.

Do you ever watch to see that your mother gets a little time every day that is really all her own? Sometimes mothers are so busy all day doing things for others and taking an interest in the affairs of the rest of the family that they never have leisure to read the things they would like to read, to write the letters they would like to write, or to do the little things in which they would find the most recreation. Watch to see whether your mother is getting a little bit of life of her own.—Selected.
